1. Eligibility groups

Worker group	Typical eligibility
Regular full-time	Medical, dental, vision, retirement, life and disability benefits, subject to plan terms.
Regular part-time	Selected benefits based on scheduled hours and plan terms.
Temporary or per-diem	Limited or no employer-sponsored benefits unless required by law or stated in an offer.
Contractor	Not eligible for employee benefit plans.

2. Enrollment windows

• New-hire enrollment must be completed within the period shown in the enrollment system.

• Annual enrollment allows employees to review and change elections for the next plan year.

• A qualified life event may permit a midyear change if requested within the plan deadline.

3. Qualified life events

Examples may include marriage, divorce, birth, adoption, loss or gain of other coverage, or a change affecting dependent eligibility. The Benefits team determines whether an event qualifies and which documents are required.

4. Dependents

Eligible dependents must meet plan definitions. Employees are responsible for accurate dependent information and timely supporting documentation. Ineligible dependents may be removed, and claims may be adjusted under plan rules.

5. Retirement savings

Eligible employees may make payroll contributions subject to plan limits. Employer contributions, vesting, loans, and distributions are governed by the formal plan document and recordkeeper rules.

6. Coverage during leave or separation

Benefits may continue, change, or end depending on leave status, payment of employee premiums, and plan terms. Continuation coverage notices are issued when required. Employees should keep contact information current.

7. Controlling documents

If this guide conflicts with a summary plan description, insurance certificate, or formal plan document, the formal plan document controls.

Agent boundary: Do not calculate an employee premium, confirm coverage, or promise reimbursement without current plan data and the employee record.
